

The Department of History Presents

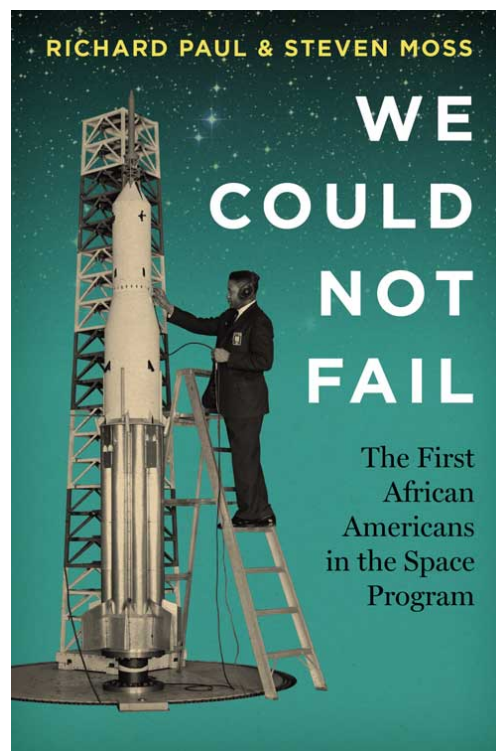

Richard Paul

“We could not fail. The first African Americans at NASA”

3 p.m.

Wednesday, October 11

Glasscock Library

We Could Not Fail tells the story of the pioneering African American engineers and scientists in 1950s-50s NASA. As Jeff Foust noted, “Historians have not previously told this story in detail ... because they perceived NASA and the civil rights movement ‘as being completely separate’.” We Could Not Fail, based on archival and oral history, dispels that perception.

For more information, contact Jonathan Coopersmith, j-coopersmith@tamu.edu.

101 Glasscock Building
4236 TAMU
College Station, TX 77843-4236

Tel. 979.845.7151 Fax. 979.862.4314
history.tamu.edu